Donna's group coaching program is unique in that it has a very specific structure and weekly homework. It keeps me accountable to her and to the other members of my group. Donna gives individualized attention to all of the members of her coaching groups and makes us each feel like we are her only project. Donna's group calls are making a difference in the way I view my business; instead of just putting out fires, I'm taking the time to do advance planning about my schedule, my marketing and my vision. This allows me to spend more time in important areas of my business.

Heather Price, Sales director, Mary Kay Cosmetics; distributor, Send Out Cards heatheramyprice@gmail.com

I was not prepared for the major growth surge my business experienced in 2008. I was drowning in administrative tasks, overrun with orders, working long hours 7 days a week, and not experiencing the financial returns I expected for all my effort. Frustrated and in need of direction, I called Donna Amos and enlisted her coaching services. In the very first week, Donna's coaching helped bring clarity to my scope of work and she provided me with dynamic and cost effective resources to establish a better infrastructure. By the second week, Donna's coaching had brought my business and personal life into significantly better balance and, in just three weeks, my business was not only under control but I was operating with a new business plan and a clear, quantifiable path to address future growth. I was so impressed by the effectiveness of Donna's methods and resources.

Her straight-talk approach is not boot camp, but she doesn't sugar coat issues either. Now that my business is on track, I look forward to working with Donna in the future to proactively address my infrastructure and growth strategies.

As I began the process of creating a new business, I came across a posting of Donna's on LinkedIn. I first talked with Donna in December and have been participating in a group coaching call since the first week of January, 2009. In this short time, I have found Donna to be extremely sincere, genuinely kind, and dedicated to helping clients create success for themselves.
